(1) Six month total return. Global growth remains moderate but steady. Earlier in June, the Bank of Canada and the European Central Bank cut their policy rates ahead of the US Federal Reserve (Fed). With that, 30 countries have lower policy rates in June.

The Bank of Canada (BoC) has begun the process of lowering interest rates by cutting its overnight lending rate to 4.75%, down from 5%, the level it has maintained since July 2023. The bank also acknowledged that “monetary policy no longer needs to be as restrictive” while at the same time, they will proceed cautiously as “risks to the inflation outlook remain.” Since our June update, recent data seems to support back-to-back rate cuts. Across Canada, we now expect Canada’s GDP to grow 0.9% in 2024, down slightly from the 1.0% we forecast last quarter, before the economy picks up in earnest in 2025. Latest GDP data shows weaker-than- expected Q1 GDP growth and a big downward revision to Q4 growth. Q1 GDP grew 1.7% q/q saar, softer than consensus at 2.2% and much lower than the BoC’s latest forecast of 2.8%. Q4 growth was also revised lower to just 0.1% from 1.0%. Final domestic demand came in at a very strong 2.9% q/q, with consumer spending supporting growth. However, we need to be careful when interpreting the data as there could be some temporary seasonal influences at play like last year.

Canadian dividend stocks, as measured by the MSCI Canada High Dividend Yield Index, finished 6 months (Jan 2024 to June 2024) up by 6.95%. Similarly, international equities, as measured by the MSCI EAFE High Dividend Yield Index (C$), up by 5.54% in Canadian-dollar terms. Finally, In the U.S., the MSCI USA High Dividend Yield Index (C$) ended the 6 months by 9.79% in Canadian-dollar terms.

Within the Fund’s Canadian equities component, the Energy sector enjoyed the highest return, followed by Financials and Materials. Communication Services sector detracted from the performance followed by Utilities and Consumer Discretionary during this period. The best performing securities within the MSCI Canada High Dividend Yield Index (C$) were Manulife Financial Corporation, followed by Suncor Energy Inc., and

Notes:

- (1) This information is derived from the Fund's annual audited financial statements, except for 2024, which is derived from the Fund's unaudited interim financial statements. The information for the net asset per unit section of the financial highlights are based on IFRS Accounting Standards ("IFRS").
- (2) Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase/decrease from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the financial period.
- (3) Distributions were paid in cash/reinvested in additional units of the Fund, or both.
- (4) This information is provided as at June 30, 2024 and December 31 of the years shown.
- (5) Management expense ratio ("MER") is based on total expenses plus harmonized sales tax (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the year. The manager absorbed certain expenses of the fund. Such absorptions may be terminated at any time without notice.
- (6) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period.
- (7) The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio adviser manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period. The higher a portfolio turnover rate in a period, the greater the trading costs payable by the fund in the period, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance.
